

James Garbarino

Volunteered to give a Professional Development to help with behaviour and life traumas.

TEACHER PD DAY

After a long and well-deserved vacation, teachers began our work for the second quarter with a day dedicated to professional development. We dedicated that day to exploring our knowledge, also coordinating our activities for the next few months and monthly activities of the different committees.

Spirit Week

Each day a theme, this is a week in which we try to raise spirits at school. Both teachers and students are invited to actively participate in each of these days. Our week started with a topsy turvy day and ended with a day of soccer games where boys and girls from all grades, teachers, and even parents made their teams and played against each other. It was a wonderful week.

Students Assembly

I Students Assembly is a special thing we are experiencing this school year. We never had one during or after pandemic. We were able to talk about one of our pillars "Miracle of individual life, which was presented by our 3rd. and 8th. Grade Students. Also, we gave donuts to the birthday people from December and January. Donuts are some kind of tradition for prizing every person who achieves something, like one more year of being born, acknowledging the Character Trait of the month, amongst other achievements. Our expert in "Trees" Mr. Jesús, taught us a lot about our trees and their life cycle and what makes them die. It was a meaningful speech for each of us. .

Click on the link to donate and help us reaching the goal of raising US$170,000 to buy a land for our school.
I want to Donate!

Staff Spotlight

Mr. Eliezer López

Art Teacher

Eliezer López is a teacher committed to the education and comprehensive development of his students. Throughout his teaching career, he has worked in comprehensive, scientific, pedagogical and moral teaching, guiding children and young people in the learning process through creative and innovative methodologies.

Its pedagogical approach is based on active learning, exploration, personal and scientific expression. In his classes, he seeks to promote critical thinking, creativity and collaboration, using different learning methodologies as tools to improve communication, self-esteem and understanding of the environment. He has years of experience in the planning and implementation of educational programs adapted to different levels, from the primary level to the diversified level, integrating strategies that allow students to develop skills in visual arts, theater, literature, social sciences and oral expression. In addition, it works on the formation of language and writing, strengthening the students' ability to analyze and express themselves.

His commitment to education goes beyond the classroom, as he seeks to inspire each student to discover their potential, strengthen their talents, and foster a love of learning. For him, teaching is not only about transmitting knowledge, but also accompanying students in their growth and formation as creative and critical individuals, capable of transforming society and contributing to the construction of a better world.

Teaching is about planting the seeds of change in every young mind, I love teaching because I know there is infinite potential in every student to change the world and make it better. Being a teacher is not only about transmitting knowledge, it is inspiring dreams, awakening creativity and fostering confidence to overcome challenges. I love being a teacher because I believe that in every child or young person there is an agent of change to build bridges to a future full of possibilities and leave a mark that transcends generations.

-Mr. López

